- a. devise and intend to devise a scheme and artifice to defraud law firms, investment firms, other business entities, and individuals who believed they were engaging in legitimate financial transactions, and to obtain money and property from such entities and persons by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations, and promises, and for the purpose of executing and attempting to execute the scheme and artifice to defraud cause to be transmitted by means of wire communication in interstate commerce, writings, signs, signals, pictures and sounds, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343; and

Object of the Conspiracy

10. The object of the conspiracy was to enrich FELIX BLACK and his co-conspirators (a) by causing law firms, investment firms, other business entities, and individuals to engage in financial transactions that representatives of the various business entities and individuals thought were legitimate but, in truth and in fact, fraudulently diverted large amounts of money to bank accounts that the co-conspirators had established to receive the diverted funds, and (b) by using financial institutions to obtain the fraudulently diverted money.

Manner and Means of the Conspiracy

11. The manner and means by which the conspirators sought to accomplish the conspiracy included, among others, the following:

- a. Conspirators used emails, financial wire transfers, and other interstate wire communications to defraud law firms, investment firms, other business entities, and individuals across the United States and obtain funds from them by means of materially false and fraudulent pretenses and representations;
- b. Conspirators, through computer intrusion schemes, dating scams, and otherwise, obtained information relating to their victims' business activities, financial accounts, and financial transactions;
- c. Conspirators incorporated and caused to be incorporated shell companies with fictitious names, sometimes including the victim's name into the shell company name, then opened and caused to be opened bank accounts in the names of those shell companies at various federally-insured financial institutions in the Northern District of Ohio and elsewhere, and provided each other with access to these accounts;
- d. Conspirators opened and caused to be opened bank accounts, in the names of existing business entities they controlled and names similar to their own individual names, at various federally-insured financial institutions in the Northern District of Ohio and elsewhere, and provided each other with access to these accounts;

- e. Conspirators provided each other with access to other preexisting bank accounts they controlled at various federally-insured financial institutions in the Northern District of Ohio and elsewhere;
- f. Conspirators made false representations to financial institution representatives about the purpose for which banks accounts were opened and the source and destination of funds;
- g. Conspirators used various methods to trick their victims into wiring money, often across state lines, to the bank accounts they controlled, including:
 - i. posing as an account holder at a financial institution and directing personnel at the institution to transfer money out of the account holder's accounts;
 - ii. posing as an employee at a victim business entity and directing personnel at that entity to transfer money via the entity's financial institution;
 - iii. posing as persons with fake investment opportunities and requesting that the victim invest money;
 - iv. providing fake checks to lawyers that the conspirators purported to engage for legal representation, claiming that the checks were settlement and transactional payments, directing the lawyers to deposit those checks in their firms' trust accounts, and then instructing the lawyers to wire money out of those accounts to settle fake claims and transactions;
 - v. posing as persons who had a legitimate interest in a financial transaction and misdirecting the funds at issue;
 - vi. providing fake checks to escrow agents that the conspirators purported to engage, claiming that the checks were earnest money payments to purchase real estate and other large dollar items such as machinery, directing the escrow agents to deposit those checks in their trust accounts, and then instructing the escrow agents to wire money out of those accounts as fake escrow payments;
- h. Conspirators traveled to bank branches located in different states to conduct transactions in accounts that had received fraudulently obtained funds;

- i. Conspirators withdrew and caused to be withdrawn portions of the victim money from the bank accounts to which it had been fraudulently transferred and used it to enrich themselves.

Acts in Furtherance of the Conspiracy

12. Between on or about August 14, 2013 and September 19, 2014, co-conspirators exchanged emails containing account details for the Huntington Bank account ending in #5863 and the Citizens Bank account ending in #6670.

13. On or about July 25, 2013, co-conspirators caused a counterfeit check in the amount of approximately $27,454.59 drawn off of an insurance company's account located in Omaha, Nebraska, to be deposited into the Huntington Bank account ending in #5863. The deposit was reversed on July 30, 2013.

14. On or about August 22, 2013, co-conspirators caused a wire transfer of approximately $200,000 into the Huntington Bank account ending in #5863 that the co-conspirators fraudulently diverted from a distribution company located in New Castle, Indiana.

15. On or about September 19, 2014, co-conspirators caused a wire transfer of approximately $45,000 into the Citizens Bank account ending in #6670. The funds represented the proceeds of a counterfeit check the co-conspirators deposited or caused to be deposited into a bank account in Forrest City, Arkansas.

The Use of Interstate Wires in Furtherance of the Conspiracy

16. For the purpose of executing and attempting to execute the scheme and artifice to defraud described above, Defendant and others known and unknown to the United States Attorney caused to be transmitted by means of wire communication in interstate commerce, writings, signs, signals, pictures and sounds, to and from the Northern District of Ohio and elsewhere. Such interstate wires included wire transfers of victim funds to bank accounts controlled by conspirators; email communications with victims; email communications, text messages, and text images between co-conspirators directing opening of accounts, passing account information, and directing movement of fraudulently obtained funds; telephone calls to financial institutions to inquire about accounts controlled by the conspirators; and accessing the internet to check balances in accounts controlled by the conspirators, including the following:

| Date of Wire | Description of Wire | Location Where Wire Initiated | Location Where Wire Received |
